

Portfolio

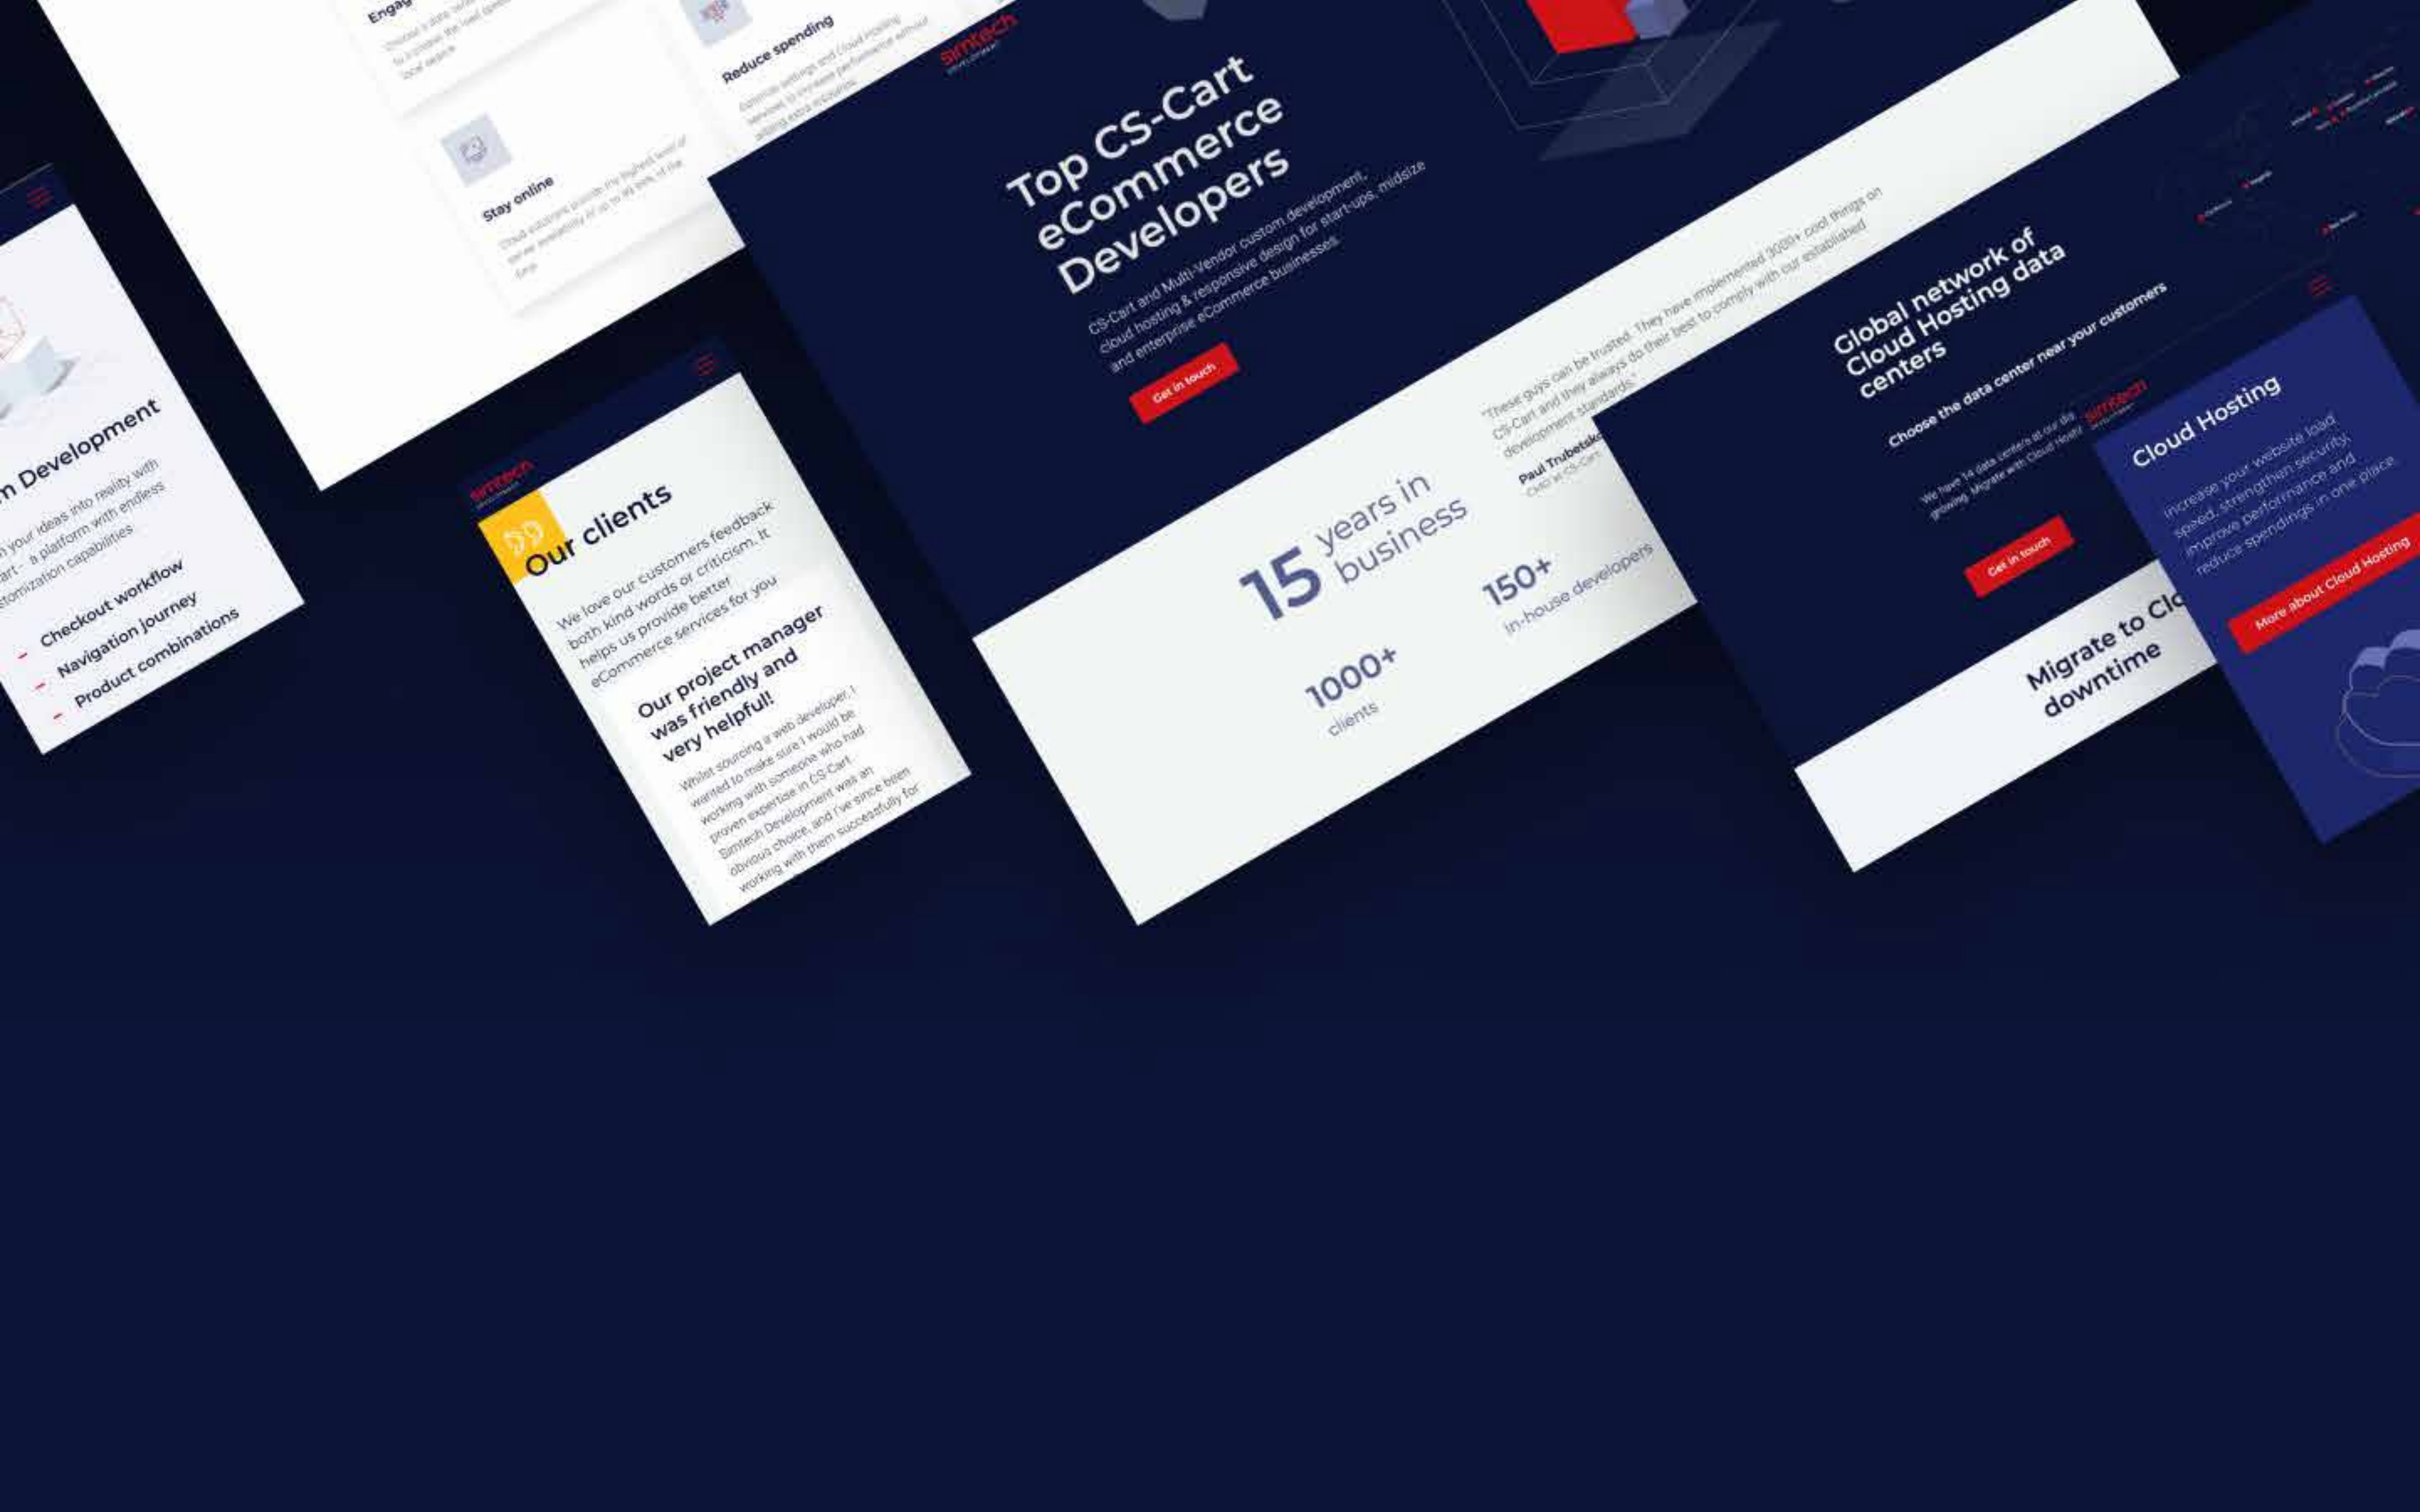

The Simtech Development Company has been engaged in hosting, custom solutions' and add-ons' development for the CS-Cart and Multi-Vendor projects for +15 years.

The design team is one more competency in the Company portfolio. Our talented experts use their multi-year experience to build new designs for eCommerce sites (homepage, category, content, checkout, and contact forms), create identity design for customers to highlight their projects' uniqueness (newsletters, banners, and logos), and perform design audit (UX&UI, navigation, and design consistency).

The team combines multiple techniques and latest approaches to adapt them to specific user requirements in a professional way. Below you will see some examples of their work. These mockups were created for the Company itself, but the sky's the limit if our dear customers ask us to do a similar or even a better design.

Website Redesign simtechdev.com

Goal

Create a new minimalistic design for the Simtech Development software agency website. Concentrate the customers' attention on the company's competences without unnecessary information.

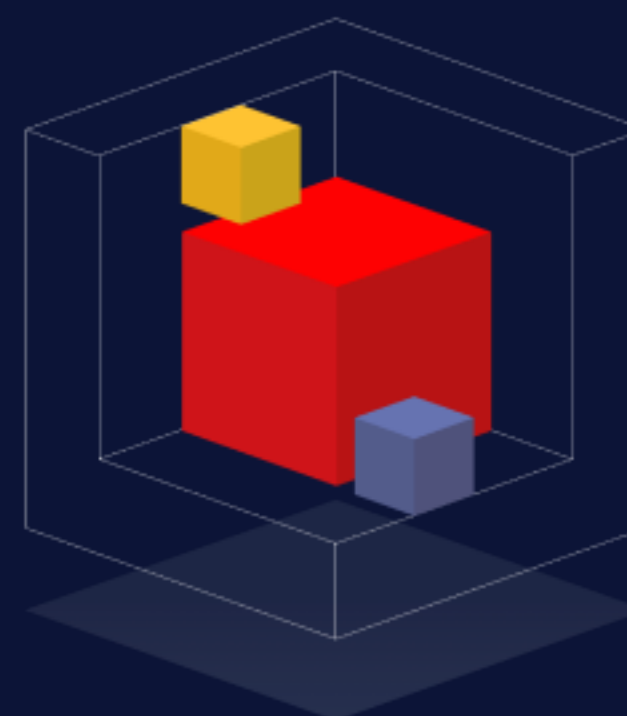

About

A peculiarity of the site redesign is the industry it operates - B2B software development. The company's clients are small and medium-sized businesses, owners of online stores and marketplaces who order custom developments from Simtech Development. The Customer wished to see a site that reflects the premium quality of the work performed, inspiring their clients with a sense of their privilege. The design should be easy to perceive and not overloaded with elements.

Dedicated account manager

When do you need dedicated development?

Long-term complex projects

Projects where development and support must be provided by insiders who are completely familiar with the system

Projects without a strict technical task

Projects with a high degree of ambiguity, and when changes are going to be made during the development process

Urgent business critical improvements

Missions regarding security, local regulation, complex integrations with enterprise systems. When you can't make mistakes

Are you a marketing agency? Lack tech skills in team?

Stop losing clients because of that gap. We can share our experts on demand.

Pricing

We use the Time & Materials pricing model. It means that you pay the hours the specialist has logged in the task-manager after the task is complete. While working on your project, Simtech Development managers send you detailed reports on time spent and tasks completed, so you can be confident that work is progressing efficiently and cost-effectively.
